MARKING + RECORDING VALUABLES

Recording serial numbers and/or engraving your most valuable possessions, and keeping these details in a safe place can help in any efforts to recover your property if it gets lost or stolen. Not only does this decrease the value of your property to a potential thief but it also assists Police in returning your property once located. This will also assist in proving ownership and expedite an insurance claim.

Just like every other aspect of modern life, there are apps available to help you track serial numbers. A quick visit to the App Store or Google Play will yield apps that make recording and storing these important numbers much easier. In addition to recording serial numbers, some of these apps also allow users to take and store photos of their property.

For those looking for a simpler solution, use the following form to record important details about your possessions:
